EVELYN NESBIT IS GIVEN BUNGALOW BY HARRY K.

Patched Up Difference Result In Gift To Be Held In Trust For Son—Both Deny That Re-Marriage Is Contemplated

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 7.—Evelyn Nesbitt, before the week is over, hopes to be able to move into a spacious bungalow, in an exclusive suburb here, a gift to be held in trust for her son Russell, from Harry K. Thaw.

She hopes to remain friendly with the slayer of Stanford White, in Madison Square Garden many years ago.

Harry and Evelyn have no plans yet for remarriage, she said.

Evelyn outlined to the United Press details of the reconciliation.

"Mr. Thaw," she said had arranged to build her a home which will be held in trust for Russell Thaw, her son, aged 15, who lives with his mother, attends a private school and is apparently leading a normal, healthy life and has ambitions to become a surgeon.

There will be no more "squabbling in the courts," she said, that being specified as one of the terms of their reconciliation.

From time to time Thaw and Evelyn will meet and probably will be seen in public together.

Evelyn revealed she is not yet free to remarry, even should she so desire as her divorce from Jack Clifford which was brought into the courts in 1924 has not been made final, only an interlocutory decree having been issued.

"Time is a great healer," Evelyn said in discussing the reconciliation.

"Mr. Thaw and I feel we have been enemies long enough. My own ambition now is to do something for Russell."

"Harry thinks Russell is a wonderful boy."

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 7.—Harry K. Thaw, discussing Evelyn Nesbitt's announcement of their reconciliation, told the United Press:

"Evelyn and I are the best of friends but we do not contemplate remarriage."

"We have dined together recently and we expect to do so again," he said.

He emphasized his forthcoming book, "The Traitor" would "vindicate Evelyn in everything."

BACCALAUREATE IS DELIVERED SUNDAY TO CENTRAL SENIORS

Successful Life Is Explained By Rev. W. H. Tilford

"The life successful, the life purposeful and the life serviceable" was the message contained in the baccalaureate sermon delivered by the Rev. W. H. Tilford, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, to sixty-four Central High graduates Sunday night.

"The measure of your cup of happiness this evening," the speaker said, "is your success thus far in life. Had you not achieved some measure of success you would not be here in the service of this evening among the favored ones. Your past successes are memory only. We are concerned with your subsequent success or failure."

"If you are successful the world will applaud your achievement—if you are a failure the world will unmercifully condemn you. The world can apologize for failure in the abstract under tricks of speech, but for individual failure it has no mercy. You may have twenty good reasons for your failure should this happen, but people will not concern themselves about your reasons—they will simply look at your failure. Therefore, we are tremendously concerned that you be successful—not material success but more than material—a successful attitude of mind and heart that will prevent your failure, and assure your success."

"Let us study the divinely successful life. If you have no other outstanding motto for your life, write this after your name—I must study to show myself approved unto God, a worker. A successful life is not so much money, although money will purchase material comforts; a successful life is not so much fame, although fame will exalt one; the successful life my friends is the divinely approved life. Show yourself approved unto God, a worker."

"The worker's life is the successful life, human and divine. The world and God have no use for a lazy person. The worker is one of the world's honored. The worker is one of God's blessed. You are wanting positions with large salaries and a minimum of work. There are no such places to be obtained. Be a worker, who does his or her work from the sense of pleasure which comes from good tasks well done. If you are a worker you will have the temptation of too much work. Let your work be commensurate with your ambition and you will have plenty to do."

"Get into the hard working class of individuals. It is a crime to be a mere spectator of the

FORMER SENATOR TO OPPOSE MISS ALLEN IN PRIMARY BATTLE

Announcement Clears Air For Democrats Say Politicians

COLUMBUS, O., June 7.—The state political situation, in so far as the Democratic party is concerned, was believed considerably clarified today with the announcement by former United States Senator Atlee Pomerene that he will be a candidate for the senatorial nomination.

Pomerene's only opposition, it was declared, will be Judge Florence E. Allen, of the state supreme court, who also is a candidate for the nomination. Judge Allen today reiterated she would not withdraw from the race, regardless of who becomes a candidate.

"I most certainly shall not withdraw," she said emphatically. "I shall file my nominating petition with the secretary of the state within the next few days."

Although Pomerene will receive opposition from this source, State Director of Commerce Cyrus Locher, who is a candidate for the senatorial toga, is expected to withdraw. Frank Gentsch, Cleveland attorney, already has withdrawn in favor of Pomerene.

Pomerene's candidacy was virtually assured at the recent state Democratic rally here. The rally, toward adjournment, evolved itself into a "Pomerene-For-Senator" meeting.

Democratic headquarters admitted today that Pomerene would be the strongest possible candidate to head the state ticket. His nomination is so certain, it was declared that he will not be required to do much campaigning.

In a formal statement announcing his candidacy, Pomerene said in part:

"When I retired from the senate three years ago I did not intend to return to political life. Yet I am now urged on all sides to disregard my individual inclinations, forego my personal interests and consider this call to public service. Thus it becomes difficult to decline."

Mr. and Mrs. Starr, while living in Greensboro, N. C., obtained clues which led them to believe a man at Denver, N. C., named Julius Coleman Dellinger, might be Charley Ross. Investigation convinced them that Dellinger, who has known nothing of his parentage, but had been raised by a pedler named McHale in North Carolina and Georgia towns, was the missing Ross boy. ### GLASS PITCHES NO-HIT, NO-RUN GAME AGAINST BOWERSVILLE

Loras Glass, Alpha hurler, pitched a no-hit, no-run game against the Bowersville Bayliffs at Harshmanville Sunday afternoon and Harshman won an easy 4 to 0 verdict in an abbreviated contest, limited to seven innings by downpour of rain in the midst of a Harshman batting rally in the last of the eighth.

The feat of Glass was accomplished against a patched up Bayliff team as three regulars were missing from the lineup and Wells, star Bowersville pitcher, was doing mound duty elsewhere in the state. Bowersville failed to get the semblance of a hit until the seventh when Book pulled a two-base hit. The umpire detected the fact he had omitted to touch first in rounding the bag and the ball was returned to first station, robbing him of even a single.

Otherwise Glass' mound work was high class. He bore down in every inning and appeared to get better as the game progressed. Sensational support saved him on several occasions.

Glass struck out eleven men, hit two batters and walked one, and but one man reached second.

Lucas hurled a creditable game for Bowersville as most of the Harshman runs were due to bad throws because of the high wind.

He yielded but six scattered hits. The four Harshman runs were scored after two were out in the third. An error by the Bayliff short stop, which would have retired the side, paved the way for the tallies.

Glass also retired the Bayliffs without a hit in the first of the eighth giving him eight full innings of hitless ball. Harshman had scored three runs with no hits in the last of the eighth when the rain increased to such an extent the field became unfit for further playing. The contest reverted back to the seventh inning and the score to 4 to 0.

The Bayliffs are without a game for next Sunday and would like to hear from any high class team, the contest to be played at Bowersville. Call B. B. Bowermeister on phone number 75 or 46. Bowersville.

A SLAP ON THE WRIST

After having watched the court proceedings against Messrs. Sinclair and Doheny drag along for several years, with no prospect of getting anywhere, the senate has taken a hand in speeding up matters. It has proposed a bill to cut out some of the technicalities involved and come to an end of the oil litigation while this generation still is living.

As one of the senators puts it, in usual sonorous wording: "Promptness in the dispatch of criminal business of the courts is by all recognized as in the highest degree desirable. Greater expedition is demanded by a wholesome public opinion."

If this "wholesale public opinion" manages at last to get action it will be the first time it has had that effect against such rich and privileged highwaymen as those who are now in possession of the naval oil reserves and hanging on to them most diligently.

The Theatre

The motion picture industry, one of the largest businesses in America, permanently employs 350,000 persons in all its branches.

This does not include approximately 40,000 principal and extra players, given work from time to time. The average weekly attendance at picture theaters throughout the country is estimated at fifty millions. Admissions paid annually total 500 millions.

Forty-five hundred operate from one to three days a week. Three hundred million linear feet of film were exported during the year 1925. In 1915 forty million feet were exported. It is estimated that ninety percent of the films shown abroad are made in America.

Fifteen hundred are run from four to five days a week.

NEW DISHES THIS WEEK

Baked Caramel Custards: Put one-half cup of granulated sugar into a small frying pan and let melt over the fire till a light brown. Add this gradually to four cups of scalded milk, taking care that the milk does not bubble up and overflow the saucepan. When the sugar is melted in the hot milk (over mild heat), turn the mixture into five slightly-beaten eggs (of the range) which have previously been mixed with one scant half-cup of additional granulated sugar. Add a pinch of salt and one teaspoon of vanilla extract, then put through a strainer. Fill small, individual buttered ramekins with the mixture and stand the dishes in a shallow pan containing warm water. Slip all into a moderate oven and let bake about twenty-five minutes, or till a knife inserted in the firm custard will come out clean. Remember the oven must not be hot enough for the water in the shallow pan to boil, otherwise the custards will "whey." If you use a Fahrenheit oven thermometer, about 350 to 375 degrees will be about right for baking these custards.

Hot-Water Gingerbread: Sift together two and one-half cups of ordinary bread flour, one-third teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of baking soda, one teaspoon of ground cinnamon and one and one-half tablespoons of ground ginger. Now cream one-half cup of leaf lard with one cup of light brown sugar, and stir into this mixture two unseparated but well-beaten eggs. Then add the dry mixture, alternately with one cup of boiling hot water. Turn at once into a buttered square pan measuring about eight by eight inches on the bottom with flaring sides one and one-half inches high, and slip the pan into a moderate oven (350 to 400 degrees Fahrenheit) to bake for about thirty minutes. When done, the gingerbread should be about two inches high.

Lemon Ice: Boil two and one-half cups of granulated sugar with four and one-half cups of water for five minutes, then cool it before adding three-quarters of a cup of lemon juice. Turn the mixture into your freezer-can, and freeze in three parts of ice to one part of salt, turning the crank about twenty minutes in all. Now remove dasher, cork hole in freezer-can cover, drain off salt water, and repack in four parts of ice to one of salt, covering freezer with newspapers; let stand at least one hour to "ripen" (grow solid.) Tomorrow—Answers to Inquiries.

Just Folks

BY EDGAR A. GUEST

FOR THE YOUNG FOLKS

Young folks have rights, say I. The right to live until they die. The right to boyhood, girlhood, too. The right to have their point of view, And what's Old Age, so prim and wise That it should dare to tyrannize

Is wisdom such a precious thing That it should kill the joy of spring?

Youth has a right to have its fun, Winter will come when summer's done, Most old men living, I surmise, Would rather be young today than wise.

Counsel and train them well, say I. Look on them with a kindly eye, Be patient with their thoughts and whims, Youth struts the world on sturdy limbs, Old age should keep in mind this truth That young folks have the right to youth.

Blest are those parents who can be Their children's happiest company, Who, knowing all that Age has taught, Can still stay young in heart and thought. Old Age, put by that frown and grin, Youth is a privilege, not a sin.

How She Gained 10 Pounds In 22 Days

That's going some—but skinny men, women and children just can't help putting on good, healthy flesh when they take McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. As chock full of vitamins as the nasty, fishy-tasting cod liver oil itself, but these sugar-coated tablets are as easy to take as candy, and won't upset the stomach.

One woman gained ten pounds in twenty-two days. 60 tablets, 60 cents. Ask Sayre's Drug Store or any druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets and if you don't gain at least five pounds in thirty days your druggist is authorized to hand you back the money you paid for them.

BOONE'S CAPTURE AND ESCAPE

Daniel Boone, ideal of the American frontiersmen, passing near Old Town, February 7, 1778, was captured by a large band of Shawnee Indians under Blackfish and Munseka, when he strayed from his thirty companions who were making a trip to the Kentucky country.

He was subdued after a short fight and he induced other members of his party to also surrender. He received excellent treatment. Boone and ten companions were taken to Detroit March 10 in the same year to Governor Hamilton. The British governor offered his Indian allies 100 pounds for him but the offer was refused.

He was returned to Old Town and the famous hunter was formerly adopted into the tribe April 18. He became a son of Blackfish. Early in June, 1778, the Shawnees took Boone to a salt lick on the Scioto River where they kept him occupied making salt. This aroused his suspicions and when the party returned to Old Chillicothe, the hunter discovered his captors planned to attack Boonesborough.

To divert suspicion he entered into their plans with enthusiasm meanwhile contemplating how to escape. He arose one morning apparently to take his usual hunting trip but in reality to escape and warn the unsuspecting settlement of its impending danger.

He had provided himself with ammunition but dared not fire his rifle to kill game or risk lighting a fire for fear of apprising his captors of his intention. He appeased his hunger with a few cuts of dried venison he had thoughtfully taken along and finally reached the Ohio River.

A poor swimmer, he fortunately found a canoe and crossed the river safely. After a journey of five days he reached Boonesborough where he found his family had returned to North Carolina despairing of ever seeing him again.

MODISH MITZI—Somebody's Loss Is Nearly Mitzi's Gain

BY J. V. JAY

"What's this" asks Mitzi. Packages from the best stores in town. Somebody must be sending her something. Maybe Aunt Sophia has been ordering things for her. There is no one quite so thoughtful as dear Aunt Sophia. Mitzi loses less time than the well known Pandora in opening these boxes.

Today's Talk

THE UNFOLDING SMELL

Every day I drive to my office. My route is picked for its beauty. I have a winding road here and a straight one somewhere else.

I like to come out from a busy street and turn into one where there are homes, trees and romping children about. Then I like to turn to the road where the great river runs and where history has been made. What a nobleness there is to all rivers! I am fortunate to have the great Hudson as a daily poem to me.

And then there is the park—its winding roads and its flower gardens and beautiful lakes and ponds.

This year the great areas of cherry and peach trees looked more lovely than ever. Perhaps because they were just a little late. Each day I watched those unfolding buds and the beds of flowers creep gently into the spring world.

But what I so much loved was that inimitable unfolding smell that perfumed the air all along my route.

I wonder who there can be who does not feel mysteriously inspired by all the odors of the field, or garden, or woods?

One thing about the automobile that has endeared it to millions is that it takes people right to the edge of beauty where they can lean over and get its smell.

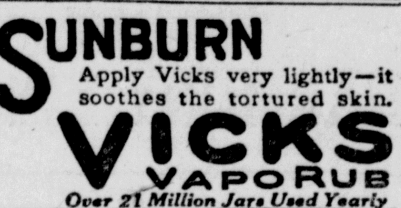

I have always liked all delicate perfumes—because I think of the beautiful flowers from which each has sprung. Gathered from all corners of the earth, they tell of the silent life and sweetness that is so often lost to those who fail to appreciate.

And how interesting to note the unfolding fragrance of a life that has been bruised and battered by the waves and storms of this life and yet remains calm and strong, unafraid of anything.

Be sure to get real Resinol

It is put up in opal jars, two sizes only—3½ oz. and 1½ oz. Preparations similar in name or appearance and those offered as or for Resinol are not "just the same as Resinol." Many of them have little healing power, and may even be dangerous to use. Resinol is never sold in bulk.

FATHER OF XENIAN CAST THE DECIDING VOTE MAKING HOME STATE INSTITUTION

Story of how the late Senator Moses D. Gatch, father of Miss Belle Gatch, N. Detroit St., this city, rode against time to Columbus to cast the deciding vote at the closing session of the legislature in 1870 which prevented establishment of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home as a private instead of state institution, has come to light.

It is told in full in an article "Historic Ohio High Spots" written by J. H. Galbraith, Columbus historian, and distributed by Associated Press. It follows:

Honor Man

Midshipman John Sylvester was graduated from Annapolis as honor man this year.

"The closing session of the Ohio Senate on April 30, 1870, was protracted through the night and almost until daylight the next day. There was a determined fight on against the establishment of a home for soldiers' and sailors' orphans as a state institution.

"It had been established as a private enterprise, and both Mrs. Hayes and the governor were much interested in it, and actually enlisted in favor of having it taken over by the state. Mrs. Hayes, assisted by many women of Columbus, had solicited funds and had held an elaborate Christmas celebration for the inmates of the home on the preceding Christmas and the function had called wide attention to what the home was doing.

"The legislature had already passed a bill making the home a state institution, but the result was close, the measure having but a single vote majority. Now its opponents had renewed the fight on the question of confirming Governor Hayes' appointments to the governing board. It that could be prevented the home would remain a private enterprise after all. One of the members of the senate, Moses D. Gatch, Xenia, had left for his home on the eve of adjournment and in his absence there was a tie vote on the confirmation. The opponents of the home hoped to force the final adjournment with the appointments thus hung-up.

"This was the situation when Governor Hayes heard of it. He sent word at once to Senator Ben J. Potts, who was leading the fight for confirming the appointments that if he could hold the senate in session a few hours he would obtain the attendance of Senator Gatch. Senator Potts sent back to the governor this message: 'Goepper is making a Dutch speech. We have them deadlocked and they can't get out until Gatch comes.'

"Senator Michael Goepper was a German-American from Hamilton County, a close personal friend of both Mrs. Hayes and the governor and heartily enlisted in the cause of the home. He could speak German, French and English with equal fluency, and through that night he switched from one language to another as he wore the night away with filibuster.

"It was almost daylight when a carriage brought the absent senator from Xenia to the senate chamber. The governor had chartered a locomotive and the senator rode to Columbus in the cab. The nominations were confirmed, the home established and the legislature adjourned in short order."

THE PILGRIM MOTHER

A statue to the Pilgrim Mother was recently unveiled at Plymouth Rock, Mass. Through her we honor every pioneer woman who endured privation and hardships that a nation might live. Shoulder to shoulder with her husband she built a home in the wilderness and reared her sturdy sons and daughters. She cooked and sewed. She spun and wove for her growing family. When they were ill, she brewed potent remedies from roots and herbs—such roots and herbs as are now used in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. —Adv.

Camel is the smoker's sign of friendship

IN THE home, or at the club—in busy office or crowded street—whenever friend meets friend, you will hear that magic invitation—have a Camel!

And wherever Camels are lighted, men come together in more friendly understanding. No other cigarette ever had or made so many friends or brought so much added friendliness to the world as Camel, for Camel's quality is a universal language.

Camel is more than a cigarette. It is an experience in smoking enjoyment—the finest this old earth affords. Camels contain the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown, and these fine tobaccos are superbly blended, as in no other cigarette. The enjoyment of Camels goes on forever, for they never tire the taste no matter how liberally you smoke them. They simply never leave a cigarette after-taste. No other cigarette in the world is like them. Millions of experienced smokers who could well afford to pay more will buy and smoke only Camels.

Whenever and wherever you meet a friend, let that be a standing invitation to the sheerest enjoyment that ever came from a cigarette.

Have a Camel!

My Matrimonial Vacation

WHOWHO AND WHATS HAPPENED

NANCY LARABEE has remained in New York with her mother.

VIRGINIA, while her husband, a young army officer,

JIM LARABEE, goes to the Philippines. They become estranged and she writes him that she wants to divorce him and marry Bill Ewing.

She received a cablegram saying that Jim has died at sea, and realizes that it is Jim she loves.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

XLIV—OUT OF THE PAST

THE next morning after breakfast—which I really tried very hard to eat—I went to the various employment agencies whose addresses I'd taken from the newspaper the night before.

At the first one the woman in charge was rather snippy when she found that I had had no practical education whatever.

"Married?" she asked, as she wrote my name and address on a blank form.

"Yes—widow," I answered, and swallowed hard to keep back the sobs that were choking me.

She looked up sharply, and then went on writing, when I could control my voice well enough to tell her that I spoke French well and played the piano, and to give her the name of the finishing school I'd attended.

"If you'd have even a year at a good college it would be much easier to get a position as governess," she told me. "And there's very little call for companions. However, I'll see what I can do for you."

At the next agency the woman in charge was very kind, but she didn't see much chance of my getting a position either.

I wondered what in the world I could do. Maybe I could get a position as a chambermaid in some hotel, or as a waitress. I began to feel quite desperate.

Yet I was more determined than ever that I would not let Dad and Virginia support me. And I really was obliged to do so, that I would have less time to think about my troubles.

I walked for hours, after I'd called at the last agency and left my name and address. I didn't want to go back to the hotel, and there was no place where that I wanted to go. Finally I went to the railroad station where I was to meet Jim's friend at half-past four. It seemed as if, by getting there early, I could make the time pass more quickly.

As I was crossing the station someone spoke my name. I turned. It was a girl I'd gone to school with, who had spoken to me.

"Why Nancy, I haven't seen you for ages!" she exclaimed. "Why don't you ever come to any of the slum meetings?"

"Oh, I've been out of town—down in the Bahama Islands," I answered.

"I heard about your going down there. And I heard about your matrimonial plans too, my dear," she went on. "I hear you're going to marry Bill Ewing. Aren't you lucky! But do you know, half the girls in our class who got married soon after they were graduated have got divorces or are getting them! Isn't it shocking? Miss Abbott is afraid the school will get a bad name; she's just having fits about it."

I wanted to get away from her. It didn't seem possible that she really meant me.

"I'm not going to marry Bill Ewing," I told her, rather abruptly. "Really? Well, you're foolish not to. I know a dozen debutantes of last year's crop and this who'd give their eyes for a chance at him. He's a wonderful catch."

I got away from her as soon as I could. What an artificial world she and I lived in, to speak so lightly of marriage and divorce and remarriage!

I remembered the way the girls had talked of marriage at school. One of them insisted that she was going to marry an Episcopalian clergyman, because their social position was always good! And another one was going to marry a naval officer, because he'd never be at home! She had plenty of money, so she could afford to, one of the other girls had added.

They'd all said they were sorry for me, when I fell in love with Jim, because an army officer never had any money. One of them had predicted that I'd leave him within a year. Well, I had!

I was at the train gate half an hour before the train was due. I'd wondered how the man who had signed that telegram "A. L." would know me, and had concluded that he'd met me at West Point, even though I didn't remember him.

The train drew into the station at last. I scanned the faces of the passengers who came down the long walk leading from it. I looked earnestly at all the men.

And then my heart seemed to stop for a moment, and then suddenly to leap into my throat.

For there was Jim, my husband—who I'd thought was dead!

Tomorrow—A Changed Man.

She hopes to remain friendly with the slayer of Stanford White, in Madison Square Garden many years ago.

BACCALAUREATE IS DELIVERED SUNDAY TO CENTRAL SENIORS

Successful Life Is Explained By Rev. W. H. Tilford

"The life successful, the life purposeful and the life serviceable" was the message contained in the baccalaureate sermon delivered by the Rev. W. H. Tilford, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, to sixty-four Central High graduates Sunday night.

"The measure of your cup of happiness this evening," the speaker said, "is your success thus far in life. Had you not achieved some measure of success, you would not be here in the service this evening among the favored ones. Your past successes are memory only. We are concerned with your subsequent success or failure.

"If you are successful the world will applaud your achievement—if you are a failure the world will condemn you. The world can apologize for failure in the abstract under tricks of speech, but for individual failure it has no mercy. You may have twenty good reasons for your failure should this happen, but people will not concern themselves about your reasons—they will simply look at your failure. Therefore, we are tremendously concerned that you be successful—not material success but more than material—a successful attitude of mind and heart that will prevent your failure, and assure your success.

"Let us study the divinely successful life. If you have no other outstanding motto for your life, write this after your name—I must study to show myself approved unto God, a worker. A successful life is not so much money, although money will purchase material comforts; a successful life is not so much fame, although fame will exalt one; the successful life my friends is the divinely approved life. Show thyself approved unto God, a worker."

"The worker's life is the successful life, human and divine. The world and God have no use for a lazy person. The worker is one of the world's honored. The worker is one of God's blessed. You are wanting positions with large salaries and an abundance of work. There are no such places to be obtained. Be a worker, who does his or her work from the sense of pleasure which comes from good tasks well done. If you are a worker you will have the temptation of too much work. Let your work be commensurate with your ambition and you will have plenty to do.

"Get into the hard working class of individuals. It is a crime to be a mere spectator of the

SPANISH DELEGATE NOT AT LEAGUE MEET

GENEVA, June 7.—A telegram from the Marquis de Leon, Spanish representative on the League of Nations council, that he would be unable to attend the present session, created a sensation as the body assembled today.

It was the first meeting which he has not attended since the league was formed, and was interpreted as being an intimation of Spain's intention to carry out her threat not to interest herself in affairs of the league if she is not given a permanent seat on the council.

ELECTS BOARD

COLUMBUS, O., June 7.—The Ohio Power Company has re-elected its board of directors, it was announced today following the thirtieth annual stockholders meeting here.

will be held in trust for Russell Thaw, her son, aged 15, who lives with his mother, attends a private school and is apparently leading a normal, healthy life and has ambitions to become a surgeon.

"There will be no more 'squabbling in the courts,' she said, that being specified as one of the terms of their reconciliation.

From time to time Thaw and Evelyn will meet and probably will be seen in public together.

Evelyn revealed she is not yet free to remarry, even should she so desire as her divorce from Jack Clifford which was brought into the courts in 1924 has not been made final, only an interlocutory decree having been issued.

"Time is a great healer," Evelyn said in discussing the reconciliation. "Mr. Thaw and I feel we have been enemies long enough. My own ambition now is to do something for Russell.

"Harry thinks Russell is a wonderful boy."

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 7.—Harry K. Thaw, discussing Evelyn Nesbitt's announcement of their reconciliation, told the United Press: "Evelyn and I are the best of friends but we do not contemplate remarriage.

"We have dined together recently and we expect to do so again," he said.

He emphasized his forthcoming book, "The Traitor" would "vindicate Evelyn in everything."

INTEREST CENTERS ON FARM SITUATION AND IOWA PRIMARY

Senate Is Revising Haugen Bill To Gain It Votes

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Political and legislative interest in Washington today centered upon the farm relief situation and the co-related Iowa primary.

As voters went to the polls in the cornbelt to record the farmer's opinion on recent national developments, the revised senate farm bloc—with advice and consent of Vice President Dawes,—started remodeling the pending Haugen bill in the hope it might be adopted before the end of the week.

Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon and his associates have prepared amendments with which they hope to ally the opposition of President Coolidge and the eastern Republicans.

While Senator Cummins, administration incumbent and Smith Brookhart, ousted insurgent, as the two leading candidates in the corn belt senatorial race, have both endorsed the Haugen bill without the changes, defeat of Cummins would be interpreted in the upper house as indicating the farmers again are in revolt and something must be done quickly.

While the new amendments may gain a few votes for the bill in the senate, there was no indication the house has changed its mind since two weeks previous, when it killed the bill by a forty-two vote margin. The amendments would cut down the government appropriation for the re-volving fund from $250,000,000 to $175,000,000 and permit $75,000,000 to be made available at once for the cotton crop.

The cut was in answer to charges the bill would cost the government too much money and the cotton feature was decided upon as ball for southern Democrats to support the bill.

Unless secured of a change of attitude from the White House, however, it is doubtful how many votes will be changed.

DESTRUCTION SPREAD BY FLOODS IN ROUMANIA; REPORT 100 DEAD

BUCHAREST, June 7.—Devastating floods in the Milcov River had spread destruction over wide areas today after a week end of torrential rains.

Bridges were swept away and entire villages submerged in the flood, which was said to be the worst in Roumania since 1918.

First reports placed the death toll at 100. Forty-three were dead in various Besarabian towns alone.

Two regiments of troops already were in the stricken area and more were being sent, as the first contingents were unable to cope with the disaster.

Russell Thaw, nineteen son of Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw, was reported missing from his Chicago hotel.

EIGHTY TAKEN FROM SHAFT OVERCOME BY GAS; ALL RECOVER

Rescue Crew Brings Cement Workers Out Safely

IRONTON, O., June 7.—Eighty men were overcome by gas from an undetermined source, when they entered the workings of the Alpha Portland Cement Company here today. The last of the men were brought out at 10:45 a. m. All were quickly revived.

Presence of the gas was not discovered until the men neared the entrance to the 600 foot shaft. Several of them collapsed and three score others were overcome before they could flee.

Several men bringing of the rear, sensing the presence of gas, when they saw their comrades fall, managed to reach the open air and sounded the alarm.

Rescue crews immediately entered the shaft and by 8:30 a. m. had carried seventy-five men to safety. The last five were found after a lengthy search.

Company officials refused to discuss the accident.

FORMER SENATOR TO OPPOSE MISS ALLEN IN PRIMARY BATTLE

Announcement Clears Air For Democrats Say Politicians

COLUMBUS, O., June 7.—The state political situation, in so far as the Democratic party is concerned, was believed considerably clarified today with the announcement by former United States Senator Altee Pomerene that he will be a candidate for the senatorial nomination.

Pomerene's only opposition, it was declared, will be Judge Florence E. Allen, of the state supreme court, who also is a candidate for the nomination. Judge Allen today reiterated she would not withdraw from the race, regardless of who becomes a candidate.

"I most certainly shall not withdraw," she said emphatically. "I shall file my nominating petition with the secretary of the state within the next few days."

Although Pomerene will receive opposition from this source, State Director of Commerce Cyrus Locher, who is a candidate for the senatorial toga, is expected to withdraw. Frank Gentsch, Cleveland attorney, already has withdrawn in favor of Pomerene.

Pomerene's candidacy was virtually assured at the recent state Democratic rally here. The rally toward advancement, evolved itself into a "Pomerene-For-Senator" meeting.

Democratic headquarters admitted today that Pomerene would be the strongest possible candidate to head the state ticket. His nomination is so certain, it was declared that he will not be required to do much campaigning.

In a formal statement announcing his candidacy, Pomerene said in part:

"When I retired from the senate three years ago I did not intend to return to political life. Yet I am now urged on all sides to disregard my individual inclinations, forego my personal interests and consider this call to public service. Thus it becomes difficult to decline."

NEW YORK WORLD SAYS CHARLEY ROSS FOUND; RELATIVES DENY

Woman Claiming To Be Cousin Of Lost Boy Produces Man She Believes To Be Missing Charley, Paper Says

NEW YORK, June 7.—The New York World today said the famous Charley Ross abduction case was believed to have been solved and that Ross, 56 years old, married and with six children, is in New York.

Mrs. Pierre C. Starr, after gathering genealogical data in the south, is convinced of Ross' identity, the World said. She is a second cousin of the child kidnapped from Philadelphia in 1874 and for whom a world-wide search was made.

Mr. and Mrs. Starr, while living in Greensboro, N. C., obtained clues which led them to believe a man at Denver, N. C., named Julius Coleman Dellinger, might be Charley Ross. Investigation by a peddler named McHale in North Carolina and Georgia towns, was the missing Ross boy. He came to New York with them, he says, to clear the question of his identity.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 7.—Relatives of Charley Ross here refuse to take seriously reports published in New York that the real Charley has been found.

"It is merely another of those false reports that periodically crop up," Walter Ross, brother of Charley, said today.

Charley Ross has been missing from his home in Germantown for fifty-two years, having been kidnapped July 1, 1874.

The Ross family spent a fortune attempting to trace him and in the course of their search have investigated and dropped more than 300 impostors. They long ago gave him up as dead.

PROSECUTOR ASKED TO PROBE PURCHASE OF HOSPITAL TRACT

Donahey Turns Over Investigation To Wayne County

COLUMBUS, June 7.—Gov. Vic Donahey today will ask Prosecutor Joseph O. Fritz, Wayne County to investigate alleged irregularities in connection with the proposed sale to the state of the site at Apple Creek near Wooster, for the new state institution for the feeble minded, it was announced this morning.

The governor's request will be embodied in a letter to Fritz, according to J. E. Mackstroth, the executive secretary who said Fritz would be directed to go into every phase of the charge made before the state board of control, that "graft" was involved in the proposed purchase.

The inquiry, it was said, will involve allegations that J. T. Hogsett, chief agriculturist of the state welfare department had entered into a deal with Col. Samuel Bell of Wooster, holder of options on the Apple Tree Site whereby Hogsett was to receive a commission if the state bought the land.

A letter from Hogsett to Bell relating to arrangements between them and referring to the options, was submitted to the board of control last week by Attorney General C. C. Crabbe.

Crabbe approved the proposed inquiry, declaring grand jury action should be taken if necessary. He said he would be glad to turn over to Fritz all evidence obtained by the board of control.

The attorney general and the governor both received telegrams from Fritz this morning stating that if an investigation is desired the grand jury will be in session at your convenience."

SPRINGFIELD WHEN CLOTHIERS DEFEAT RESERVES SUNDAY

Errors Undermine Good Pitching By Cyphers

Profiting by Reserve errors which paved the way for at least four runs, the Springfield When Clothiers overcame a three run lead to defeat the Xenia Reserves 5 to 4 Sunday afternoon at Washington Park. Weather conditions for the contest were the worst this season. A severe wind swept across the diamond raising huge clouds of dust and delayed the game after almost every pitch, culminating in a drizzling rain in the late innings.

Cyphers outpitched Payton limiting the opposition to a scant eight hits and fanning six batters. With better support he would have turned in a 4 to 1 victory. The first four Springfield runs were in the nature of gifts and Cyphers' own wildness contributed to the winning run in the eighth.

Payton also pitched well, yielding eleven scattered hits, striking out five and exhibiting perfect control. He did not walk a man and had only one hit in the fourth when Brockman's nine bunched four hits and aided by an error, scored four times.

After this rally, the Reserve batting subsided. Payton granted only three hits in the last five frames.

Cyphers and McPherson fanned their batting averages. Besides pitching good ball, the erstwhile Reserve third sacker punished the Xenia batters for three singles while McPherson, the former pitcher, also smacked the oval into safe territory three times, once for a double. Eckert contributed a brace of doubles.

Cyphers hurled hitless ball for the first three innings while his mates were wasting four hits, two of which were made in the second before an out was made.

In the fourth, Schwartz singled. Hornberger sacrificed and Schwartz came all the way home when Cain overthrew the second trying to nip him. Reserves found Payton for four runs in their half of the inning. Ramsey was safe on Gelmar's fumble and went to third on McPherson's single. Gross flied out but Fuller inserted a single which scored Ramsey and Melchior's one base hit plated Fuller and McPherson. Eckert kept up the hitting spree with a long double which scored the Reserve catcher but flied trying to stretch it into a triple.

Springfield got one back in the fifth. Gelmarten singled. Rader was safe at second when Conley threw wild past first. Gelmarten taking third. Brannigan singled, scoring Gelmarten. Fuller's accurate throw home prevented Rader from scoring and Melchior, by a fast relay, nipped Brannigan at second. Rader was thrown out at the plate when he tried to score on Payton's bounce to Conley. Armstrong was tossed out at first.

The Clothiers tied the score in the seventh. W. Kinsler was safe when Eckert let his roller over second slip through. Gelmarten walked. Kinsler took third when Conley muffed Cyphers' sudden toss to second. Rader fanned, but Brannigan inserted a single scoring Kinsler. Gelmarten also coming in when Melchior dropped the throw to the plate. Payton was safe at first and Brannigan at second when Conley made a bad throw to second. Conley drove deep to right but McPherson made a spectacular catch turning it into a double play by a fast relay to Cain which caught Payton.

GLASS PITCHES NO-HIT, NO-RUN GAME AGAINST BOWERSVILLE

Loras Glass, Alpha hurler, pitched a no-hit, no-run game against the Bowersville Bayliffs at Harshmanville Sunday afternoon and Harshman won an easy 4 to 0 verdict in an abbreviated contest, limited to seven innings by downpour of rain in the midst of a Harshman batting rally in the last of the eighth.

The feat of Glass was accomplished against a patched up Bayliff team as three regulars were missing from the lineup and Wells, star Bowersville pitcher, was doing mound duty elsewhere in the state. Bowersville failed to get the least semblance of a hit until the seventh when Bop pulled a twobase hit. The umpire detected the fact he had omitted to touch first in

The annual Thanksgiving service of Damon Lodge, No. 29, Knights of Pythias and Unity Court, No. 12, Calanthe held at the Zion Baptist Church, Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Ridley, of Wilmington, Ohio, preached the sermon. The Zion Choir furnished the music. Visiting lodges from Yellow Springs and Jamestown attended.

Mr. Loyd Byrd, of E. Church St., is very ill at his home.

Mrs. Marie McCann, of E. Church St., who has been ill for a few days is somewhat improved.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hampton, E. Market St., entertained at her home, the eighth grade class of her school at Wilberforce, Wednesday evening.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Pettiford, of Indianapolis, is the guest of relatives and friends. She also attended East High commencement exercises Friday evening at the Opera House.

One of the pleasant festivities of the season was the passing party given at the residence of Mrs. George I. Gaines, E. Market St., Friday, May 28, by the Twentieth Century Club, to the pupils of Junior High School passing to the Senior High School. The class of eighteen boys and girls was welcomed by the president, Mrs. Carrie Singer, in her accustomed way, which was very much in place.

It was responded to by Miss Pauline Hall. An excellent program was rendered, each member of the class taking part. The club awards annually a prize to the pupil who receives the highest grades in the class. This honor was given Olmstead Evans. A contest prize in history was given Kenneth Clemens. Blanch White received the contest game prize. Refreshments were served at the close of the program. Remarks by Prof. A. Taylor closed the happy affair.

A SLAP ON THE WRIST

After having watched the court proceedings against Messrs. Sinclair and Doherty drag along for several years, with no prospect of getting anywhere, the senate has taken a hand in speeding up matters. It has proposed a bill to cut out some of the technicalities involved and come to an end of the oil litigation while this generation still is living.

As one of the senators puts it, in usual sonorous wording: "Promptness in the dispatch of criminal business of the courts is by all recognized as in the highest degree desirable. Greater expedition is demanded by a wholesale public opinion."

If this "wholesale public opinion" manages at last to get action it will be the first time it has had that effect against such rich and privileged highwaymen as those who are now in possession of the naval oil reserves and hanging on to them most diligently.

The Theatre

The motion picture industry, one of the largest businesses in America, permanently employs 350,000 persons in all its branches.

This does not include approximately 40,000 principal and extra players, given work from time to time. The average weekly attendance at picture theaters throughout the country is estimated at fifty millions. Admissions paid annually total 500 millions.

Employees of studios and distributing exchanges are paid wages and salaries amounting to ninety millions annually. Nine thousand theaters throughout the country are operated from six to seven days each week.

Fifteen hundred are run from four to five days a week.

NEW DISHES THIS WEEK

Baked Caramel Custards: Put

one-half cup of granulated sugar into a small frying pan and let melt over the fire till a light brown. Add this gradually to four cups of scalded milk, taking care that the milk does not bubble up and overflow the saucepan. When the sugar is melted in the hot milk (over mild heat), turn the mixture into five slightly-beaten eggs (of the range) which have previously been mixed with one scant half-cup of additional granulated sugar. Add a pinch of salt and one teaspoon of vanilla extract, then put through a strain-

er. Fill small, individual buttered ramekins with the mixture and stand the dishes in a shallow pan containing warm water. Slip all into a moderate oven and let bake about twenty-five minutes, or till a knife inserted in the firm custard will come out clean. Remember the oven must not be hot enough for the water in the shallow pan to boil, otherwise the custards will "wee." If you use a

Fahrenheit oven thermometer, about 350 to 375 degrees will be about right for baking these custards.

Hot-Water Gingerbread: Sift

together two and one-half cups of ordinary bread flour, one-third teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of baking soda, one teaspoon of ground cinnamon and one and one-half tablespoons of ground ginger.

Now cream one-half cup of leaf

lard with one cup of light brown sugar, and stir into this mixture two unseparated but well-beaten eggs, then add one cupful of molasses. Add the dry mixture, alternately with one cup of boiling hot water. Turn at once into a buttered square pan measuring about eight by eight inches on the bottom with flaring sides one and one-half inches high, and slip the pan into a moderate oven (350 to 400 degrees Fahrenheit) to bake for about thirty minutes. When done, the gingerbread should be about two inches high.

Lemon Ice: Boil two and one-half cups of granulated sugar with four and one-half cups of water for five minutes, then cool it before adding three-quarters of a cup of lemon juice. Turn the mixture into your freezer-can, and freeze in three parts of ice to one part of salt, turning the crank about twenty minutes in all. Now remove dasher, cork hole in freezer-can cover, drain off salt water, and repack in four parts of ice to one of salt, covering freezer with newspapers; let stand at least one hour to "ripen" (grow solid.)

BOONE'S CAPTURE AND ESCAPE

Daniel Boone, ideal of the American frontiersman, passing near Old Town, February 7, 1778, was captured by a large band of Shawnee Indians under Blackfish and Munseka, when he strayed from his thirty companions who were making a trip to the Kentucky country.

He was subdued after a short fight and he induced other members of his party to also surrender. He received excellent treatment. Boone and ten companions were taken to Detroit March 10 in the same year to Governor Hamilton. The British governor offered his Indian allies 100 pounds for him but the offer was refused.

He was returned to Old Town and the famous hunter was formerly adopted into the tribe April 10. He became a son of Blackfish.

Early in June, 1778, the Shawnees took Boone to a salt lick on the Scioto River where they kept him occupied making salt. This aroused his suspicions and when the party returned to Old Chillicothe, the hunter discovered his captors planned to attack Boonesborough.

To divert suspicion he entered into their plans with enthusiasm meanwhile contemplating how to escape. He arose one morning apparently to take his usual hunting trip but in reality to escape and warn the unsuspecting settlement of its impending danger.

He had provided himself with ammunition but dared not fire his rifle to kill game or risk lighting a fire for fear of apprising his captors of his intention. He appeased his hunger with a few cuts of dried venison he had thoughtfully taken along and finally reached the Ohio River.

A poor swimmer, he fortunately found a canoe and crossed the river safely. After a journey of five days he reached Boonesborough where he found his family had returned to North Carolina despairing of ever seeing him again.

MODISH MITZI—Somebody's Loss Is Nearly Mitzi's Gain BY J. V. JAY

"What's this?" asks Mitzi. Packages from the best stores in town. Somebody must be sending her something. Maybe Aunt Sophia has been ordering things for her. There is no one quite so thoughtful as dear Aunt Sophia. Mitzi loses less time than the well-known Pandora in opening these boxes.

She must try everything on, even the night robe which is of peach crepe de chine with applique embroidery. Georgette forms the yoke and the sleeve. There's a step-in chemise to match too. Aunt Sophia is so thoughtful! Mitzi thinks she had better send some flowers to her right away.

Lingerie in every blessed box. Heavenly pale green crepe de chine. Mitzi tries this debutante set on and it fits exactly. What taste Aunt Sophia has! The step-in panties have a lace yoke that takes all bunchiness from the waist. The brassiere of cream Valenciennes lace matches.

Just as Mitzi is trying on these nion panties and the vest to match, there comes a knock at her door. It appears some packages have been delivered to the house by mistake. Does she know anything about them? Does she? If honesty weren't the best policy Mitzi probably would be ignorant of them. As it is

Every day I drive to my office. My route is picked for its beauty. I have a winding road here and a straight one somewhere else.

I like to come out from a busy street and turn into one where there are homes, trees and romping children about. Then I like to turn to the road where the great river runs and where history has been made. What a nobleness there is to all rivers! I am fortunate to have the great Hudson as a daily poem to me.

And then there is the park—its winding roads and its flower gardens and beautiful lakes and ponds.

This year the great areas of cherry and peach trees looked more lovely than ever. Perhaps because they were just a little late. Each day I watched those unfolding buds and the beds of flowers creep gently into the spring world.

But what I so much loved was that inimitable unfolding smell that perfumed the air all along my route.

I wonder who there can be who does not feel mysteriously inspired by all the odors of the field, or garden, or woods?

One thing about the automobile that has endeared it to millions is that it takes people right to the edge of beauty where they can lean over and get its smell.

I have always liked all delicate perfumes—because I think of the beautiful flowers from which each has sprung. Gathered from all corners of the earth, they tell of the silent life and sweetness that is so often lost to those who fail to appreciate.

And how interesting to note the unfolding fragrance of a life that has been bruised and battered by the waves and storms of this life and yet remains calm and strong, unafraid of anything.

FATHER OF XENIAN CAST THE DECIDING VOTE MAKING HOME STATE INSTITUTION

Story of how the late Senator Moses D. Gatch, father of Miss Belle Gatch, N. Detroit St., this city, rode against time to Columbus to cast the deciding vote at the closing session of the legislature in 1870 which prevented establishment of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphan's Home as a private instead of state institution, has come to light.

It is told in full in an article "Historic Ohio High Spots" written by J. H. Galbraith, Columbus historian, and distributed by Associated Press. It follows:

Honor Man

Midshipman John Sylvester was graduated from Annapolis as honor man this year.

"The closing session of the Ohio Senate on April 30, 1870, was protracted through the night and almost until daylight the next day. There was a determined fight on against the establishment of a home for soldiers' and sailors' orphans as a state institution.

"It had been established as a private enterprise, and both Mrs. Hayes and the governor were much interested in it, and actually enlisted in favor of having it taken over by the state. Mrs. Hayes, assisted by many women of Columbus, had solicited funds and had held an elaborate Christmas celebration for the inmates of the home on the preceding Christmas and the function had called wide attention to what the home was doing.

"The legislature had already passed a bill making the home a state institution, but the result was close, the measure having but a single vote majority. Now its opponents had renewed the fight on the question of confirming Governor Hayes' appointments to the governing board. It that could be prevented the home would remain a private enterprise after all. One of the members of the senate, Moses D. Gatch, Xenia, had left for his home on the eve of adjournment and in his absence there was a tie vote on the confirmation. The opponents of the home hoped to force the final adjournment with the appointments thus hung up.

"This was the situation when Governor Hayes heard of it. He sent word at once to Senator Ben J. Potts, who was leading the fight for confirming the appointments that if he could hold the senate in session a few hours he would obtain the attendance of Senator Gatch. Senator Potts sent back to the governor this message: 'Goepfer is making a Dutch speech. We have them deadlocked and they can't get out until Gatch comes.'

"Senator Michael Goepfer was a German-American from Hamilton County, a close personal friend of both Mrs. Hayes and the governor and heartily enlisted in the cause of the home. He could speak German, French and English with equal fluency, and through that night he switched from one language to another as he wore the night away with filibuster.

"It was almost daylight when a carriage brought the absent senator from Xenia to the senate chamber. The governor had chartered a locomotive and the senator rode to Columbus in the cab. The nominations were confirmed, the home established and the legislature adjourned in short order."

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

XLIV—OUT OF THE PAST

THE next morning after breakfast—which I really tried very hard to eat—I went to the various employment agencies whose addresses I'd taken from the newspaper the night before.

At the first one the woman in charge was rather snippy when she found that I had had no practical education whatever.

"Married?" she asked, as she wrote my name and address on a blank form.

"Yes—widow," I answered, and swallowed hard to keep back the sobs that were choking me.

She looked up sharply, and then went on writing, when I could control my voice well enough to tell her that I spoke French well and played the piano, and to give her the name of the finishing school I'd attended.

"If you'd have even a year at a good college it would be much easier to get a position as governess," she told me. "And there's very little call for companions. However, I'll see what I can do for you."

At the next agency the woman in charge was very kind, but she didn't see much chance of my getting a position either.

I wondered what in the world I could do. Maybe I could get a position as a chambermaid in some hotel, or as a waitress. I began to feel quite desperate.

Yet I was more determined than ever that I would not let Dad and Virginia support me. And I really wanted work, hard work, that I'd be obliged to do, so that I would have less time to think about my troubles.

I walked for hours, after I'd called at the last agency and left my name and address. I didn't want to go back to the hotel, and there was nowhere that I wanted to go. Finally I went to the railroad station where I was to meet Jim's friend at half-past four. It seemed as if, by getting there early, I could make the time pass more quickly.

As I was crossing the station someone spoke my name. I turned. It was a girl I'd gone to school with, who had spoken to me.

"Why Nancy, I haven't seen you for ages!" she exclaimed. "Why don't you ever come to any of the alumni meetings?"

"Oh, I've been out of town—down in the Bahama Islands," I answered.

"I heard about your going down there. And I heard about your matrimonial plans too, my dear," she went on. "I hear you're going to marry Bill Ewing. Aren't you lucky? But do you know, half the girls in our class who got married soon after they were graduated have got divorces or are getting them? Isn't it shocking? Miss Abbott is afraid the school will get a bad name; she's just having fits about it."

I wanted to get away from her. It didn't seem possible that she really meant me.

"I'm not going to marry Bill Ewing," I told her, rather abruptly. "Really? Well, you're foolish not to know a dozen debutantes of last year's crop and this who'd give their eyeteeth for a chance at him. He's a wonderful catch."

I got away from her as soon as I could. What an artificial world she and I lived in, to speak so lightly of marriage and divorce and remarriage!

I remembered the way the girls had talked of marriage at school. One of them insisted that she was going to marry an Episcopalian

clerkman, because their social position was always good! And another one was going to marry a naval officer, because he'd never be at home! She had plenty of money, so she girls had added.

They'd all said they were sorry for me, when I fell in love with Jim, because an army officer never had any money. One of them had predicted that I'd leave him within a year.

I was at the train gate half an hour before the train was due. I'd wondered how the man who had signed that telegram "A. L." would know me, and had concluded that he'd met me at West Point, even though I didn't remember him.

The train drew into the station at last. I scanned the faces of the passengers who came down the long walk leading from it. I looked earnestly at all the men.

And then my heart seemed to stop for a moment, and then suddenly to leap into my throat.

For there was Jim, my husband—who I'd thought was dead!

THE PILGRIM MOTHER

A statue to the Pilgrim Mother was recently unveiled at Plymouth Rock, Mass. Through her we honor every pioneer woman who endured privation and hardships that a nation might live. Shoulder to shoulder with her husband she built a home in the wilderness and reared her sturdy sons and daughters. She cooked and sewed. She spun and wove for her growing family. When they were ill, she brewed potent remedies from roots and herbs—such roots and herbs as are now used in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. —Adv.

Camel is the smoker's sign of friendship

IN THE home, or at the club—in busy office or crowded street—whenever friend meets friend, you will hear that magic invitation—have a Camel!

And wherever Camels are lighted, men come together in more friendly understanding. No other cigarette ever had or made so many friends or brought so much added friendliness to the world as Camel, for Camel's quality is a universal language.

Camel is more than a cigarette. It is an experience in smoking enjoyment—the finest this old earth affords. Camels contain the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown, and these fine tobaccos are superbly blended, as in no other cigarette. The enjoyment of Camels goes on forever, for they never tire the taste no matter how liberally you smoke them. They simply never leave a cigarette after-taste. No other cigarette in the world is like them. Millions of experienced smokers who could well afford to pay more will buy and smoke only Camels.

Whenever and wherever you meet a friend, let that be a standing invitation to the sheerest enjoyment that ever came from a cigarette.

Have a Camel!
